

1856

Frémont ran for President The Republican Party had chosen him as its first presidential candidate ide lost.

During War between States Frémont was a Major General but he failed to win victories; (no experience) resigned.

He was a rich man but lost all his money on a railroad that failed questions. His parents let him build a laboratory in his basement. Now Alva spent the better part of every day in his laboratory. He tested every example in his science book. He especially liked those experiments that had to do with electricity and motors. He kept careful records of all of his experiments

To raise money, he raised vegetables
